Recommended Browser Hardware, Software, and Environments

The following tables define which combinations of operating system, browser, and JRE are supported by Prodagio.

Browser Hardware Requirements

For Prodagio client applications, a client machine capable of running the supported software configurations listed in the Browser environment table is needed, plus whatever disk space, RAM or CPU requirements that may be specified by third-party products such as Microsoft Office. Prodagio client applications install a JRE based applet on the client machine. This requires approximately 100 MB of free hard disk space. Additionally, sufficient free disk space is needed to handle checked-out and cached documents.

Browser Software Requirements

The tables in this section provides information on supported software environments and reflect the latest versions of third-party products, upon which the Prodagio product depends that are supported at the time of this release. Prodagio recommends upgrading third-party products to the version listed for this release. If third-party products cannot be upgraded to the version listed for this release, Prodagio continues to support all third-party product versions supported with the following caveats:

- the third-party product is not of the same or earlier version than those versions listed in the table below
- the third-party product version is still supported by the third-party vendor
- the third-party product version is forward compatible with the version supported in this release

Third-party product versions NOT supported in this release:

Product Category	Third Party Products	Version
Operating System	Windows	Windows 2000 SP2 Update Rollup 1

The user interface for Prodagio clients runs in a browser environment. The browser environment consists of a specific combination of operating system, browser, and JRE. The following browser environment table for Prodagio lists the supported browser environments.
